RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Earlington People

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one kidney medicine that has earned a reputation for lasting results and there is plenty of proof of its merit right here in Earlington.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago. he's bout the stuck-up-est kid they is, and now makes his testimony even stronger.

John Franklin, Earlington, Ky .. says: "I have had no occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills nor any other kidney remedy since this preparation cured me some years ago. You are at liberty to use my testi monial as heretofore. I had pains like him a heap better over there; he's in the small of my back when stooping or lifting and I became tired easily. "I knows a turrible skeery tale," remarked a malicious Billy, looking at Lina and Frances. "If y' all wa'n't girls I 'd tell it to you."

"We are n't any more scared 'n you, William Hill," cried Frances, her interest at once aroused; "I already know bout raw meat and bloody bones' and nothing 's scarier 'n that."

"And I know 'Fe, Fi, Fo, Fum, I smell the blood of an Englishman. Be he alive or be he dead, I'll ground his bones to make me bread," said Lina. "This-here tale," continued Billy, sissyest boy they is; and he don't care who kiss him neither; he'll let any woman kiss him what wants to. Can't no woman at all 'cepting my mama and Miss Cecilia kiss me. But Leon is 'bout the kissingest kid they is; why, he'd just as soon 's not let Frances and Lina kiss him; he ain't got no better sense. 'Course I gotta let Miss Cecilia kiss me 'cause she's bout the plumpest Sunday school teacher they is and the Bible say 'If your Sunday school teacher kiss you on one cheek turn the other cheek and let her kiss you on that, too,' and I all time bound to do what the Bible say. You 'd better call him back, Frances, and kiss him, you and Lina 're so stuck on him."

"I would n't kiss him to save his life," declared Frances; "he 's got the spindliest legs I ever saw."

CHAPTER XX.

Rising in the World.

The painter had just finished putting a bright green coat of paint upon the low, flat roof of Miss Minerva's long back-porch. And he left his ladder leaning against the house while he went inside to confer with her in regard to some other work.

Billy, Jimmy, Frances and Lina had been playing "Fox and Geese." Running around the house they spied the ladder and saw no owner to deny

"Le 's clam' up and get on top the porch," suggested Jimmy.

"Aunt Minerva 'll put me to bed if I do," said Billy. "Mother 'll make me learn a whole page of the catechism if I climb a ladder," said Lina. "My mama 'll shut me up in the closet, but our mamas are n't bound to know 'bout it,"—this from Frances. "Come on, let 's climb up." "I ain't never promise not to clam' no ladder but —" Billy hesitated.

"You-all 'bout the skeeriest folks they is," sneered Jimmy. "Mama 'll whip me going and coming if she finds out bout it, but I ain't skeered. I dare anybody to dare me to clam' up."

"I dare you to climb this ladder," responded an accommodating Frances. "I ain't never tooken a dare yet," boasted the little boy proudly, his foot on the bottom rung. "Who 's going to foller me?" "Don't we have fun?" cried a jubilant Frances.

"Yes," answered Jimmy; "if grown folks don't all time be watching you and sticking theirselfs in your way." "If people would let us alone," re-marked Lina, "we could enjoy our selves every day."

"But grown folks got to be so per-ticlar with you all time," cried Jimmy, "they don't never want us to play together."

He led the way up the ladder, fol-lowed by Frances and Billy; and Line brought up the rear. The children ran the long length of the porch leaving their footprints on the fresh, sticky

"Will it wash off?" asked Frances, looking gloomily down at her feet, which seemed to be encased in green

At that moment she slipped and fell sprawling on top of the roof. When the others helped her to her feet, she was a sight to behold, her white dress splotched with vivid green from

"If that ain't jus' like you, Frances," Jimmy exclaimed; "you all time got to fall down and get paint on your dress so we can't 'ceive nobody. Now our mamas bound to know bout us clamming up here."

"They would know it anyhow," mourned Lina; "we 'll never get this paint off of our feet. We had better get right down and see if we can't wash some of it off."

While they were talking the owner of the ladder, who had not noticed them—and was deaf in the bargain had quietly removed it from the back-porch and carried it around to the frent of the house.

> HOLLINGER & TRUEMPY Jewelers

THIS is "Brighten-Up" week---the time for a genuine, old-fashioned house-cleaning---made easier by modern appliances and labor-saving helps. It is not only the time for cleaning and scrubbing and polishing; but for brightening up the home with paints and varnishes and making it permanently cheerful and cozy. It's surprising what a lot you can do with a can of paint, varnish or enamel, a brush and a little energy. That old floor, your soiled and scratched woodwork, the dingy cupboard---all these can be made clean and new, if you use the proper Brighten-Up Finish.

And don't neglect the outside of your home. Painting not only makes it look fresh and neat, but protects the wood and metal from decay and rust, lengthening the life of the building. Of course, the important thing is choosing the paint which looks best, wears the longest; is the easiest to apply, and affords the greatest protection for the money. Poor paint is dear at any price. We recommend Sherwin-Williams Paints and Varnishes because they are scientifically made from the purest materials. Regular colors, price $2.25 per gallon---worth more.
